

“Directions of development and improvement of the Military Police Specialized Unit in Mińsk Mazowiecki in the aspect of preparation and implementation of tasks to ensure security and public order.”

SUMMARY

The PhD dissertation entitled "Directions of development and improvement of the Military Police Specialized Unit in Mińsk Mazowiecki in terms of the preparation and implementation of tasks to ensure security and public order" concerns the identification of the current level of preparation of the unit for cooperation with the non-military system, and then proposing scientifically proven solutions to improve this process.

As part of the dissertation, the characteristics of the functioning of the Military Police unit in the area of cooperation with the Police and Border Guard were presented. The events of recent years related to security and the need for cooperation between services have shown how important it is to ensure an appropriate level of quality of cooperation. Repeatedly implemented support for the above-mentioned formations with soldiers of the Military Police Gendarmerie achieved the assumed goals, but its efficiency in terms of effectiveness, benefits and economy can always be higher.

The main research problem was defined by the question: what changes and improvements should be made in the Military Police Specialized Unit in order to improve cooperation with the Police and the Border Guard? The dissertation presents an analysis of the basic acts of law regulating the functioning of the described services and the legal basis for the organization of cooperation between them. Military Police Specialized Unit's functional areas responsible for the implementation of the tasks were characterized and based on the results of the conducted research, their improvement was proposed. In addition, one of the chapters of the dissertation was dedicated to the characteristics of police formations with military status operating in other European countries, which allowed for drawing interesting conclusions regarding the subject of the research.

The author's interest in the subject matter results from professional experience gained during many years of service in the Military Police, often carried out in cooperation with the described formations. According to the author, the integration of services responsible for security and public order is an inseparable element of an efficiently functioning state, guaranteeing its development.

The doctoral dissertation is a comprehensive list of areas and factors determining the level of cooperation of the Military Police Specialized Unit in Mińsk Mazowiecki with the Police and Border Guard. The conducted analysis of the literature and the results of survey research allowed to achieve research goals and prepare containing innovative solutions regarding the functioning of the branch.